

Narrator: It's the first day of summer vacation. Hasani has just uploaded a new video to YouTube, and her dad is going to drive her to his house for the weekend.

Hasani: You got a convertible? Nice! Wait. Is this car electric? Mom's gonna love that.

Dad: It's a hybrid plug-in. Best of both worlds.

Hasani: I didn't know they made cars like this.

Dad: They don't. It's custom. I know a guy.

Hasani [smiles] Yeah, right.

Narrator The two of them get in the car and put on their seatbelts. Dad turns the car on and starts driving while Hasani checks her phone.

Dad: Is that YouTube?

Hasani: [still looking at phone] Yeah.

Dad: Sandy is big on social media, too.

Hasani: [still looking at phone] Who's Sandy?

Dad: Sandy is my good friend. YouTube's not her big one, though. Her big one is Instagram. You should talk to her about it. She'll be at the house when we get there.

Hasani: Why will Sandy be at the house?

Dad: Oh! Because she lives there now.

Narrator: As you can imagine, Hasani had feelings. Big feelings. Feelings that made it hard for her to be her best self. So when she got back to her mom's house looking for a little comfort, all she got was.

Mom: Hasani Marie Schexnayder-Jones, go to your room. We will discuss this in the morning.
